John Hembrow has big plans for Treetops Plaza. Above is how it will look when finished.

Hembrow splash around Treetops

LOW-profile southern Gold Coast developer John Hembrow has been busy splashing cash on roadworks around Treetops Plaza, the prime retail centre he plans to redevelop into a bustling new lifestyle hub.

The Gold Coast Bulletin reported this week that Mr Hembrow's company Rayjon was contributing $1.75 million to help Energex relocate power lines off Marymount College land, at Burleigh Waters. Rayjon also has chipped in $750,000 to upgrade the Bermuda Street and Reedy Creek Road intersection.

The developer has laid plans to transform Treetops into a vibrant mixed-use town centre with apartments, offices, cafes and a 'high street' shopping precinct.
